Bankers Say It Is Political and Violates Agreement.

PERKINS, Nov. 23.—The British, French, Russian and Japanese bankers of the governing group have sent a letter to the Minister of Finance, saying that the loan is not for the purpose of the Chicago banks' "Joint" Article 17 of the Reorganization Loan Agreement of April 26, 1913. The letter declares the loan is political and not industrial and asks for an explanation.

The Chinese Parliament recently unanimously approved a loan of $5,000,000 made by the Chinese Government with the Continental and Commercial Bank of Chicago. The loan was said to be for immediate administrative needs.

SKIM MILK CHEESE SOLD ONLY FOR FREE LUNCH IN SALOONS

"Is Filling, but Non-Nutritious," Expert Tells the Wicks Committee.

Men who grab a handful of cheese after a drink in a saloon may get something that is filling but not very nutritious. This was brought out today at the hearing of the Wicks Legislative Committee, when it developed that there is a cheese manufactured known as "saloon cheese," and sold only to saloon keepers for distribution at the free lunch counter.

"Saloon cheese" is made of skim milk and contains little or no butter fat, the nutritious element of milk or cheese, it was developed at the hearing.

Ole Salthe, Assistant Director of the Food and Drug Bureau of the Department of Health, said his Department pays little or no heed to the manufacture and sale of cheese.

The precautions taken by the Health Department in supervising the eggs brought to the city for sale were described by Mr. Salthe. There is no possibility that eggs condemned by the Board of Health in this city may reach consumers out of town, he said, for condemned eggs are destroyed in a carboic acid solution.

With 70,000 establishments to be inspected, declared Mr. Salthe, a force of eighty-five men is inadequate to cover all establishments where food is sold, but the principal points where meat comes in are guarded.

Mr. Salthe was asked as to the possibility of inferior veal being brought into the city by dealers who evade inspection by taking the meat from the refrigerating cars somewhere outside the city limits.

He said all meat coming to the city must bear a Federal inspector's stamp. Meat brought into the city surreptitiously, he said, and inspection evaded, probably would be found for sale in butcher shops. If un-stamped meat is found on sale to consumers a prosecution of the dealer and an investigation is at once started.

Officials of the New York Railways Company will have to explain to the Public Service Commission Monday why they have long permitted a public nuisance at Broadway and Fifty-third Street, caused by without cross-overs. Every time a car hits the crossing the noise is similar to a cannonade.

Commissioner Hayward to-day moved the company to be given an opportunity to make good its promise of many months to replace the cross-overs. If there is further delay, Commissioner Hayward said, the company will be penalized.

"I have been after the company ever since last June," the Commissioner added. "They have told me many stories about the difficulty of obtaining new hard centres. The whole neighborhood has been complaining about the noise. I can see nothing else to do but to set this matter down for a hearing."

CALL MRS. ASCHE 'NIETZSCHE WOMAN' AND MARBLE BRIDE

Counsel for Husband Also Declares He Will Prove Her a "Pathological Liar."

"The Nietzsche woman," product of too much study of the mad German philosopher's writings, was the title Attorney Gustav Lange Jr. gave to Mrs. Asta Asche to-day after he had forced her to admit that for many years she had not only studied Nietzsche but had evolved a philosophy of her own built upon new and radical views of love and marriage.

The aesthetic young passed through the ordeal of final cross-examination without a flutter, but after hearing physicians describe her as a marble bride she collapsed and for half an hour during the noon recess hid her face in her mother's lap and cried aloud.

There had been a previous tense moment for the girl wife of six weeks when Mr. Lange told Justice Cohalan, who is trying her separation suit, that he would prove by eminent alienists that Mrs. Asche, clever writer though she be, was what is known in medicine as a "pathological liar." This appellation disturbed Mrs. Asche, but she did not cry.

Denies Favoring Marriage for a Time Period Only.

Mr. Lange thrust a copy of "What Nietzsche Taught" at the young woman and forced her to admit that certain passages therein had been marked by her and that she had also been a deep student, writing her own ideas of Nietzsche's iconoclastic beliefs in a manuscript.

"Do you remember reading a quotation from Nietzsche about leasehold marriages?" inquired Attorney Lange.

"I do," replied Mrs. Asche.

Q. Are you in favor of a marriage for a period of time only? A. I am not.

Q. You made notes? A. I made notes, but I didn't need to mark the book.

Q. Did you read this quotation from Nietzsche when you read this book: "Enthusiastic Sacrifice. Self-immolation. These are the catchwords of your morality. In reality you only appear to sacrifice yourselves after your imagination turns you into gods and you enjoy yourselves as such." Is that one of the things you loved in Nietzsche? A. No.

Q. Did you read this paragraph: "We approve of marriage in the first place, because we are not acquainted with it; in the second place, because we are accustomed to it, and in the third place, because we have contracted it—that is to say, in most cases, and yet nothing has been proved thereby in favor of the value of marriage in general?" Do you remember reading that? A. I do.

Q. That embraces your idea of marriage, does it not? A. Not exactly.

Q. You were studying his philosophy? A. I was interested in his works.

Q. Do you remember reading this quotation: "Those girls who mean to trust exclusively to their youthful charms for their provision in life and whose morality is further prompted by worldly mothers, have just the same aim as courtesans, only they are wiser and less honest." Did you read that? A. Yes, I read that.

Q. You read it before you left Mr. Asche? A. I read it before I was engaged to Mr. Asche.

Lawyer Lange forced the young wife to admit she had lived only six weeks to a day with Asche.

In a "novelistic confession," written by Mrs. Asche she gave the duration of her heroine's marital career with her husband as six weeks to a day.

Justice Cohalan, before whom Mrs. Asche's separation suit is on trial, would not admit the novelistic evidence, but Asche's lawyer declared he would prove Mrs. Asche to be none other than Olivia Standish, the salacious heroine in her strange contribution to literature.

CHARGES MOTHER SIGNALED TO MRS. ASCHE ON STAND.

Mr. Lange, at the opening of court, asked Justice Cohalan to exclude Mrs. Helga O'Connor, mother of Mrs. Asche, from the courtroom.

"I am informed," said the lawyer, "by a most reliable witness, that the mother of Mrs. Asche sat in this courtroom yesterday and secretly signally her daughter how to answer questions, when the witness hesitated."

"That's untrue," replied Loris Elton Rogers, counsel for the girl-wife. "I sat here all yesterday and didn't see any signals exchanged. I object to the charge."

"I didn't see any signals," said Justice Cohalan.

From a bundle of correspondence that passed between mother and daughter after the latter's separation from Asche, counsel for the husband produced a letter by Mrs. O'Connor, in which she told her daughter to "sign anything that was reasonable."

The witness explained that "anything reasonable" referred to the affidavits in the separation suit, which she signed while recuperating at Watkins Glen, N. Y.

PART OF THE CORRESPONDENCE ADMITTED BY COURT.

Efforts were made by Attorney Rogers to keep out the correspondence, but Mr. Lange insisted the letters revealed a conspiracy planned by the mother. The court permitted some of the letters to go into the record.

MRS. ASCHE DENIES KISSING A STRANGE CHAUFFEUR.

Mrs. Asche denied that when she left the Watkins Glen Sanitarium she kissed the strange chauffeur who drove her.

"Do you like the frivolous life?" asked the lawyer.

"No, sir. I'm serious-minded," replied the witness.

"Go to Maxim's, Jack's and other night places?"

"Once only. I love dancing, but only classical dancing."

The witness admitted that she had corresponded with many Yale men and having a friend in Yale nicknamed "Cala," a wealthy Chinese student.

Cigarettes came in for consideration. The witness said she enjoyed them after meals.

"Ever smoke them without any clothes on, not even your nightgown?" asked Mr. Lange.

"Why, the idea!" she replied, "never."

The examination of Dr. Henry C. Coe, who made two examinations of Mrs. Asche, developed a dramatic incident. Called by Mr. Rogers, the physician declared that it was his belief that marriage had not changed Mrs. Asche's medical status but that she was in the eyes of medical experts a freak. Whether that condition had an effect upon her mental status was asked Dr. Coe, but before he could answer Mr. Lange was on his feet exclaiming dramatically:

"Your Honor this woman is practically insane and, as this is not an alienist, he cannot testify as to the mind."

Justice Cohalan ruled the testimony out. Dr. Dennis McAuliffe, a widely-known obstetrician, declared that while Mrs. Asche was an exception to medical rules, there was no reason for the assertion that her marriage to Asche was a loveless one. Dr. McAuliffe, appointed by the court, examined Mrs. Asche last night.
